FAQs:

1. What is the purpose of this website for corporate employees?
Corporate employees can use this website to create rewards that drivers can claim based on their points. This can help incentivize drivers to park in car parks they've indicated interest in and support the company's business goals.
2. How can I create rewards for drivers?
As a corporate employee, you should be able to access the rewards creation feature in your account dashboard. From there, you can specify the number of claims per reward and the number of points needed to claim each reward.
3. What types of rewards can I create?
The specific types of rewards you can create will depend on your company's preferences and goals. Some examples may include discounts on products or services, gift cards, or access to exclusive events.
4. How are the points awarded?
Points are awarded each time a driver parks at a car park they have indicated interest in. For each eligible park, the driver will receive one point.
5. What is the point value?
Each point is valued at approximately SGD$0.10.
